New Perspectives on Irish English 3, 18-19 June 2015

New Perspectives on Irish English 3 2015
The State of Irish English: Connecting Multiple Views on a Variety

Previously held at University College Dublin, this year's New Perspectives on Irish English will be held on the 18-19 June 2015 at the University of Limerick. It is hosted by the University of Limerick and Mary Immaculate College, Limerick, and is jointly organised with Newcastle University, UK.

This event will build on the success of previous symposia in creating a space for scholars of Irish English to share current research and perspectives, and to create new collaborations. The focus of research on Irish English has hitherto been clustered – within the fields of syntax, phonology, semantics-pragmatics, dialectology, sociolinguistics, corpus-based linguistics, or literary studies, for example – and the principal goal of this symposium is to draw these inherently connected strands together, to create a strong collective that is open and interdisciplinary.

We now invite paper contributions that focus on Irish English, and varieties of Irish English, from diverse perspectives, including considerations of questions such as, but not limited to:

- New and existing approaches to collecting and analysing Irish English data;
- New (and old) sources of data for Irish English research, including representations of Irish English in various media, such as television/film/broadcast and social media/literature etc.;
- Conceptualising and investigating varieties of spoken and written Irish English;
- New speakers of Irish English;
- Combining different frameworks for analysing Irish English.

We welcome all papers in these and related areas. Anonymous abstracts should not exceed 250 words (excluding references). Name, affiliation and contact details should be provided in the accompanying e-mail.

Abstracts should be sent to: Elaine.Vaughan@ul.ie & Brian.Clancy@mic.ul.ie

Deadline: 16 April 2015

Notification of acceptance: 30 April 2015

NPIE 3 is being organised by Elaine Vaughan (University of Limerick) and Brian Clancy (Mary Immaculate College, Limerick), in conjunction with Karen Corrigan, Newcastle University, UK.
